Course number	1355
Location/Room	MPIfG, Paulstr. 3, Conference room
Time	Tuesday, 10 – 11.30 am, beginning 20 April 2010
Credit Points	6 ECTS
Type of course
Course Language	English

1. Objectives

The course aims to provide students with a conceptual and contextual framework for understanding transnational economic governance in the age of globalization. It will introduce students to key issues and sources in transnational governance research, drawing on contributions from sociology, political science, organization and legal studies. The aim is to stimulate critical and interdisciplinary thinking and to enable students to develop conceptual and empirical research tools.

2. Prerequisites

Ideally, students should have prior academic knowledge in one of the following thematic fields: sociology of globalization, political sociology, international relations and/or organisations, new modes of governance, European governance, international and or European law. However, given the interdisciplinary nature of the course, the most important prerequisite is a vivid research interest in the field under study.

3. Relevance for study programs

The course addresses CGS, IMPRS and other doctoral students of the WiSo-Faculty as well as MA and advanced Diploma students who are planning a bachelor/master or diploma thesis in this thematic field.

4. Registration

There are 10 seats available for doctoral students who should register for this course before 10 March 2010 sending an email to Professor Quack (quack@mpifg.de). (Additional 10 seats are reserved for MA and Diploma students who will register via KLIPS). The course will start on 20 April 2010 and will be taught once a week during the term.

5. Contents

The seminar focuses on the development, dynamics and implications of emerging forms of transnational governance in the global economy – public, private, and hybrid. The sessions will deal with trends in economic globalization, new forms of governance at the national and transnational level, governance arrangements in specific problem fields (financial markets, environmental products, food and safety, labour relations, etc.), their accountability and legitimacy and conceptual frameworks to compare and make sense of them.

The syllabus and complete reading list will be made available online before the beginning of the course: http://www.mpifg.de/people/sq/teach_en.asp

6. Working requirements and assessment method

The course will be taught through a combination of lectures, student presentations and discussion. You are expected to come regularly to class having done the assigned reading and be ready to discuss it. In addition, you are expected to complete the following assignments:

- 1) Submit 5 brief response memos (no more than 1 single-spaced page) on the week's readings. These memos are intended to prepare the ground for class discussions by requiring participants to set out their initial reactions to the reading in written form. Each memo should identify at least one question that you would like to discuss in class. The memos need to be posted on the iversity platform by Sunday 8 pm before the class at the latest.
- 2) Give a short verbal presentation of key findings of the reading and questions for discussion (not longer than 15 minutes, done in groups of two) in one of the seminar meetings.
- 3) Write a critical review (4-5 single spaced pages) of an annual/policy report by an international/governance organisation (due mid-term). A list of reports to be chosen from will be provided during the second session of the seminar. The review should be posted on the iversity platform by Sunday, 30 May 12 pm at the latest.
- 4) Write a research paper (approx. 15 single spaced pages) assessing a specific form of transnational governance, defined as an organizational arrangement aimed at regulating or resolving a public problem of transnational scope. The topic should not be too broad (e.g. Fair Trade Labellings Organisation International and not certification schemes as such; the Clean Cloth Campaign and not labour codes in general; the International Swaps and Derivatives Association and not private governance in financial markets, etc.). A two page proposal for the research paper containing a suggested title, subject and an outline should be posted on the iversity platform by Sunday, 20 June 12 pm at the latest and discussed in a meeting with Sigrid Quack soon afterwards. The final version of the research paper is due to be uploaded to the iversity platform by Friday, 6 August 12 am at the latest.

Summary of deadlines:

Assignment	Date	Time

Critical Review of policy report	30 May	12 pm
